

ABSTRACT

ORGANIC ELECTROLUMINESCENT DEVICES FORMED WITH

5 RARE-EARTH METAL CONTAINING CATHODE

There are disclosed rare-earth metal containing electron-injecting electrodes which are particularly effective for use with organic LED devices used in electroluminescent structures and which may in particular be formed as transparent electrodes for use in 10 transparent or surface emitting OLEDs.